NOVICE CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Novice Championships will be held on the 27th August, and almost all skaters nominated who were expected to. I expect all will do well. Nevertheless, our numbers in the competition's Novice events remain small, a matter that our coaches need to address – although the continuing success of the Saturday development class gives some hope.

STAR CLASSES

In a “bad news, good news” story, Tia Walker, who has been helping with Sunday's classes, has injured her knee – but Phoebe Nuttall has provided continuing support, and needs very little oversight. We also have had help, at various times, from Charli Nuttall and Amy Loader. Not only do the skaters who help find out whether coaching suits them, but they also present great role models for the new skaters in the classes.
